AN ILLUSORY SCHEME.

The inducement held out by the overland railroad companies for the passage of their pet measure to extend the time for paying their debt to the Government is that they will give additional security by consenting to an extension of the present lien on the brunk line to all the branch lines. Inasmuch as these branch lines are already heavily laden with mortgages. and were built in part out of the very resources which should now be laid away for the purpose of meeting the Government loan, it is a brassy performance to make such a proposition A private creditor would in such a case have asked a court of equity to prevent such a waste of the debtor's resources or to decree that the addition to the estate should not be allowed to im poverish the original security. The court would have either prevented the construction of the branch roads of would have extended the Government's lien to them.

The statesmen who are all withlone accord finding reasons for supporting this new demand of these fat corpora-Mions, will do well to look before they leap. There is nothing in the bill how pending which would prevent the 2 ranch lines from being saddled with new mortgages for untold amounts at any time prior to the acceptance by the companies of the terms of the pro posed settlement. Has this occurred or any of the new railroad recruits? It is absurd to suppose that there is a mile of railroad in the United States men is not already bonded as well as stocked up to high-water mark. The Overland railroads are of course like sucked oranges, but the hope that a few more sucked oranges will be of any use in securing the payment of the Government's claim against them will surely prove illusory.

The only practical way to a settle ment would be through suits to compel the managers to disgorge some of the wealth which they have accumulated solely by bleeding the roads on which the Government had a lien.

THE Senate has passed the bill to

ON WHAT BASIS of right or reason does Congress allow its members (upper and lower branch) a mileage rate of 20 cents a mile? For short distances this extravagant figure does not it counts up to almost criminal extravagance. Take, for instance, the rate to the Pacific slope. The entire expense of making that trip both ways for one person need not exceed $300 including the best of everything, yet the Government allows $1,200 and upwards. Why should it? On what ground is a Congressman allowed to make from $900 to $1,000 on a twoweeks' run? The galliest man in the Capitol, if allowed to present a bill for his personal expenses, when not traveling officially, would not dare to run the figures up to the present legal allowance. If he did it would cost him his sent as soon as the people of his district were apprised of the facts. If, therefore, there exists such a discrepancy between facts and right, why is it allowed to exist? A fair mileage rate, actual necessary expenses, could not be objected to, but the present 20cent rate is an extravagance that paralyzes Jeffersonian simplicity and makes Democratic economy a delusion and a snare.

AN EDITORIAL article appears in the New York Star of Thursday reflecting in terms of great severity upon the street railway corporations of Washington as being grasping, unprincipled and autocratic monopolies. The oppoway enterprises is the evident inspiration of the attack. They are naturally hostile to improvements that will in any wise infringe upon the patronage of which they want the exclusive enjoyment, or that will necessitate additional improvements on their own part in order to compete with more progressive rivals, but the public is not disposed to quarrel with the facilities they now have nor to utterly condemn them as nuisances which ought to be abolished. THE CHITIC is not only in favor of our present street-car companies, so far as they answer the requirements of the times, but of as many new ones as the increasing wants of the District may demand, built upon the most approved plans and compelling a general adaptation of the entire system to modern standards. Sooner or later public opinion will regulate this matter in its own way and for the greatest good of the greatest number.

WE extend to Mrs. Cleveland to-day our sympathy and hope she will received last night. By a little brief calculation it may be shown what that inexperience hand of hers had to endure. There were, say 10,000 people wanting to be taken by the hand. Each one of course had to be shaken, and the movement necessary to do that represents, to one accustomed to shaking hands only in a private way, a distance to be traversed by the hand of the shaker of about three feet. A good-looking New Yorker was in town ast week, and one night he fell into the hands of the police and had to send for a friend to get him out. On their way home the friend was shaking him up for being caught.
